Press Release

The Saint Lucia National Trust Southern Chapter conducted a successful clean-up activity at the Trust's Southern office on Saturday, November 21. The members of the Southern grouping came together to improve the visual appeal of the Southern office as well as to ensure that there is a home for the Southern Chapter.

Co-ordinator of the Southern Chapter, Brian Evans, expressed his satisfaction with the clean-up exercise and said that there are plans in place to make better use of the Southern Office. Among the plans he pointed to is to ensure that there is an increased presence at the office for the purpose of educating people about the importance of protecting the natural and cultural heritage of the south of Saint Lucia and the country in general.

The clean-up involved placing a new sign on the building, tidying up the office and making general improvements to the surrounding area, including cutting the grass and pruning the trees. The Southern Chapter will ensure that there are continuous improvement works and maintenance at the Southern Office especially in regards to its visual appearance and its educational appeal.

The Southern Chapter continues to call upon other Trust members and the people of Saint Lucia to join in the movement to "Protect Fair Helen's Patrimony" as it is not only for us but also for future generations. The group encourages interested persons to come to its monthly meetings which are held on the second Tuesday of every month from 6 p.m. at the Trust Southern Office next to The Reef. The Southern Chapter can be found on Face book by searching for SLNTSouth or by logging onto its website at www.slntsouth.ning.com. Come members, "let us arise and protect what is ours".
